BIGELOW HOLDS POWER BALANCE IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2—Cincinnati was without a mayor today, blocked by Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow's refusal to vote for either Charterite Charles P. Taft or Republican James G. Stewart.

Bigelow, the lone independent, holds the balance of power between four Republicans and four Charterites on the Cincinnati council. From the Republicans, Bigelow, whose "$50 at 60" pension plan was defeated in a state-wide election last November, demanded a guarantee against efforts to eliminate the proportional representation system of voting by which councilmen are named.

From the charterites, he asked "tolerant consideration" of three unidentified proposals.

Council was to meet again today at which time another attempt to elect a mayor was to be made.

16,000 Russian Troops Reported Surrounded On Salla Front

HELSINKI, Jan. 2—Italian volunteers are arriving in Finland to aid in the fight against Soviet Russia, it was reliably reported today.

The volunteers are in addition to groups of Italian airmen who already are said to have taken part in aerial battles against Soviet planes, using Italian aircraft.

Quantities of war materials also are arriving from Italy.

HELSINKI, Jan. 2—Striking quickly after their outstanding victory on the Suomassalmi front, Finnish forces prepared today to deliver a "last annihilating attack" to 16,000 Russian troops trapped on the Salla battle front of Finland's "waist-line."

Reports reaching the capital said that a major Finnish victory was imminent following a Finnish maneuver which encircled the 16,000 Russians. The Finns were reported closing in rapidly and cutting the Russian communications preparatory to unleashing the death-blow.

Meanwhile, the important Finnish port of Abo (Turku) on the mouth of the Gulf of Finland was in flames after a devastating Russian aerial attack. Many buildings in the ancient city were wrecked and burning, it was reported. Abo has served as a depot for reception of war materials sent to Finland by Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

Reports from Abo said the bombing attack had been exceptionally violent and that 14 persons were dead and many wounded. Damage was reported extensive as flames raged in various parts of the town.

The attack was regarded as Russian revenge for the defeat suffered by Russian troops near Suomassalmi.

Five Civilians Killed

(A dispatch from Stockholm stated that nine Russian planes bombed Uleaborg in the first Russian air assault of Finland's "waist-line sector" behind the actual fighting front. Five civilians were reported killed, one stone building was wrecked and five wooden frame houses burned to the ground. Two Russian planes were said to have been shot down.

Helsinki authorities predicted that the situation at Salla would result in a Finnish victory even

VARIOUS YEARS CITED

Total Collection In Last Annum Fixed At $37,858 By Postmaster

Postal receipts for the Circleville postoffice set a new record in 1939. A. Hulse Hays, postmaster, announced Tuesday that receipts for the year totalled $37,858.73 as compared with $35,057.47 in 1938, the previous high.

Receipts for December amounted to $4,714.96, compared with $4,698.25 for the same month in 1938.

During the last quarter of the year receipts amounted to $11,000, $10,487.19 being 1938's total.

"From all indications 1940 should show sufficient postal receipts to make this office a first class one," Mr. Hays said.

He explained that receipts would have to amount to about $44,500 during 1940 for the first class rating. Under a first class rating the office would have more employees and be entitled to various improvements.

Receipts for the various years are: 1937, $34,999.12; 1936, $33,727.55; 1935, $31,593.25; 1934, $30,182.80; 1933, $28,333.31; 1932, $31,443.30; 1931, $33,684.08; 1930, $34,420.52, and 1929, $33,211.38.

A New Year's greeting card received by the Circleville postoffice from James A. Farley, postmaster general, said receipts for the last year in the nation exceeded those of the previous calendar year by more than 25 millions of dollars.

Nazis Protest Tacoma's Internment By Uruguay

BERLIN, Jan. 2—The German minister at Montevideo has protested to the Uruguayan government against internment of the German tanker Tacoma, it was announced officially today.

The German government contended that the Tacoma acted as a rescue ship and therefore should be released.

(The Uruguayan government interned the Tacoma on grounds that it assumed the status of an auxiliary German naval vessel by acting as supply ship for the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.)

MONTEVIDEO, Jan. 2—Preparations were under way today to beach the interned German tanker Tacoma in shallow water in Montevideo for duration of the war.

Authorities also are making arrangements to intern the 62 members of the Tacoma's crew in the interior of Uruguay.

The vessel was interned yesterday after the ship's captain had

Budget And Taxes Provide Solons With Questions Of Grave Importance

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—President Roosevelt today conferred with congressional leaders and personal advisers on plans for opening of the third session of the 76th congress—a session loaded with political dynamite—at high noon tomorrow.

The President, it was reported in congressional quarters, will devote much of his annual message to congress on the international situation and will call for national unity in solving problems arising in a war-torn world.

Republican leaders anxiously awaited the message, which the President will deliver in person at a joint session of senate and house, to see whether he actually proposes an adjournment of parliament. The Republican leaders make it plain that they will reject any such plan.

A brief legislative program is expected to be submitted by the President. Special messages with detailed recommendations may follow within the next few weeks.

Bitter Fight Expected

While Democratic leaders hope for a harmonious session, Republican leaders predict many bitter battles. Presidential politics is certain to dominate many actions of the congress, with a possibility that events of the session may determine the presidential nominees of the two major parties.

Outstanding questions faced by the session include:

1. THE BUDGET. Disclosure that the President will recommend big reductions in appropriations already has brought protests from sectional interests. Republicans say the President will try to "pass the buck" to congress on the question of economy.

2. TAXES. The President is expected to suggest taxes to finance extraordinary defense and farm parity costs, with congress reluctant to vote tax increases in a campaign year.

3. TRADE AGREEMENTS. President to fight for extension of trade agreement power, with a Republican - Democratic coalition planning to fight for senate ratification of all trade agreements.

4. NATIONAL DEFENSE. Administration expected to seek $500,000,000 increase in defense outlays. Congress, in the mood to support adequate preparedness, may nevertheless check expansion program.

Limitation Vital

5. DEBT LIMIT. Republicans to fight expansion of the $45,000,000,000 national debt limit. Administration through economies, may seek to postpone an increase in debt limit until next year.

6. ANTI-LYNCHING LAW. House slated to pass Gavanan anti-lynching bill, with senate filibuster and split between northern and southern Democrats threatened.

7. WAGNER ACT REVISION. Showdown expected on demands for revision of act, with attitude of congress still problematical. Drastic revision doubted by many members.

8. RAILROADS. Final passage of Wheeler-Lea railroad relief bill, designed to place rail, motor truck

LIMA COUPLE HAS FIRST BABY FOR SECOND YEAR

LIMA, Jan. 2—The first Allen County baby of the new year apparently was born to Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hennon for the second consecutive year.

A daughter born to them half a minute after midnight Jan. 1, 1939, won for the Hennons prizes offered by Lima merchants.

Twelve minutes after the arrival of the new year yesterday a son was born to the same family. So far as could be learned in a preliminary check, it was the county's first 1940 birth.

BOTH UNIONS OF LABOR SEEKING PERKINS' SCALP

U. S. Secretary Faces Hot Fight As New Congress Session Starts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Miss Frances Perkins, who has weathered many political storms since she assumed the job as U. S. secretary of labor when the New Deal came into power six years ago, faced new attacks today on the eve of opening of congress tomorrow.

Both the A. F. of L. and CIO were "gunning" openly for the only woman member in President Roosevelt's cabinet, but prospects that Mr. Roosevelt would move to replace her in the last year of his present term were remote.

The A. F. of L., it was learned, was preparing to push its demand that Miss Perkins be summoned before some congressional committee to explain her review of labor developments in 1939. In effect, William Green, federation president, accused Miss Perkins of being pro-CIO in the report by failing to place responsibility for the collapse of President Roosevelt's labor peace conferences on the CIO.

Green asked that Miss Perkins be summoned before the "appropriate" congressional committee and while the federation yields considerable influence on Capitol Hill there was no indication of any move to summon her. A move to impeach her failed at the last regular session.

The CIO was on record months ago criticizing the administration of the Labor Department by Miss Perkins. Several incidents have intensified the feeling of bitterness by the CIO against the Labor Department since then.

Some new expression by the CIO against Miss Perkins was expected when the CIO's United Mine Workers union holds its golden-jubilee convention at Columbus, O., January 23. That date also may mark the beginning of new and more intensified political activity by John L. Lewis, who heads both the mine workers and the CIO.

GERMAN, BRITISH AIRPLANES FIGHT IN ISLE REGION

BERLIN, Jan. 2—One German plane was forced to alight on the water during an air battle off the Scotch coast that developed when Reich planes reconnoitered over Britain's Shetland and Orkney Islands, the official German news agency announced today.

One British plane was seriously damaged in the fight, the agency added.

(In London the British air ministry stated the German air force carried out an unsuccessful bombing raid against the British naval base at the Shetland Islands and that one German bomber was destroyed.)

(This plane, said the air ministry, shot down during a running air battle between three British aircraft and two German Heinkel planes that lasted half an hour. The engine and both wings of the German machine were enveloped in flames as the plane dove into the sea.)

(A joint British admiralty and air ministry statement said the German bombs scored no hits and caused no casualties at the naval base.)

A Berlin announcement said the German planes reconnoitered the Shetland and Orkney Islands according to orders that the flights again provided important and valuable information.

Some of the German planes came into contact with British aircraft off the coast of Scotland, this announcement said, and in the course of an air battle one German plane was compelled to effect an emergency landing at sea.

This plane, according to German quarters, had a technical defect and was not fully capable of action. Hopes were expressed that its crew would be rescued.

In addition, it was stated that one of the British planes received numerous hits "so that it can be regarded as practically certain that it did not return to its base."

Another announcement stated British planes which attempted to carry out reconnaissance flights over the German North Sea coast on Sunday were compelled to turn back before they could carry out any attacks.

During their return flight, it was charged, the British planes in three instances violated Dutch neutrality by entering the Dutch air zone.

MESSANGER BOY IS THANKED FOR SAVING YOUTH, 11

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2 — Leo Dawson, 17, a Western Union messenger boy, today was credited with saving the life of his friend, Samuel Rutter, 11, when he carried him to a hospital on his bicycle, riding more than a mile over snow-covered streets.

Scuffling with a playmate who was visiting him, Rutter was stabbed in the neck, the wound piercing his windpipe. When his sister, Harriet Rutter, 15, was unable to stop the flow of blood, Dawson offered to take the wounded youth to Fairview Park Hospital.

Putting the injured boy on the crossbar of his bicycle, Dawson rode over the slippery streets to the hospital, where attendants stopped the flow of blood and gave the Rutter boy emergency treatment. He was not seriously injured, they said, but any delay in treatment might have proved serious.

AVIATOR UNHURT AS UPSIDE-DOWN LANDING IS MADE

NEW ALEXANDRIA, Pa., Jan. 2—After his companion had bailed out in five-above-zero cold, Lt. Stanley Stewart, 30, early today skidded his plane to an upside-down stop in a field of snow near here.

Stewart dropped headfirst from the cockpit, unhurt.

Five miles away, Lt. Dwight B. Johnson, 32, untangled himself from a parachute which lodged against a tree. Luckily, Johnson landed near a farmhouse.

Both men found immediate shelter from the incense cold.

The army lieutenants were en route to Chicago from West Point, intending to stop at Cleveland to refuel, but strong headwinds held back their ship, eating up its gasoline supply.

Reports that the Finnish ski fighters in the Far North have recaptured Petsamo, which was taken by the Russians early in the war, could not be confirmed. But authorities in Helsinki, on the bases of meager military advice, said they considered recapture of the city "probable."

At four separate points along the eastern Finnish border extending from Lake Ladoga to the Arctic Sea, "considerable" Finnish patrols have penetrated deep into Soviet territory.

May Attack Bases

These patrols were said to be large enough to attack the Russian bases at Uchta and Repola. They also are aiming directly against the Leningrad-Murmansk railway to cut it and sever the Soviet supply line to the Far North.

Additional reports from the Suomussalmi area revealed that the Russians suffered their most serious defeat of the entire conflict when the Soviet "anchor" division was cut to bits by Finns who captured huge quantities of the most modern Russian war equipment.

EDISON THRILLED AS NAVY OFFICE OATH IS TAKEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Confessing that he is "thrilled," Charles Edison today took the oath of office that elevated him to the cabinet as secretary of the navy.

With high war and navy officials present at the brief ceremony in his private office, Edison formally was inducted into the cabinet post as successor to the late Claude Swanson.

"No one would be quite human to fail to feel a thrill on becoming secretary of the navy," Edison said.

Edison, son of Thomas Edison, the famed inventor, has been assistant secretary of the navy since 1937 and has been acting secretary since Swanson's death last June.

RUSSIANS MOVE VETERANS INTO CARELIAN AREA

VIIPURI (Viborg) Finland, Jan. 2—Crack regiments from Central Russia, accustomed to sub-zero temperatures, have replaced the raw recruits who have been hammering at the Mannerheim Line on the Carelian Isthmus for more than a month.

This became evident on a personal visit to the Carelian Front in the neighborhood of Vuoksi.

There the trench walls were pitted with bullets following a futile attack the Russians made at dawn. Bodies of Russians were thick on the barbed wire in no man's land.

The forest around Vuoksi was nearly leveled by artillery fire, and the Russian lines below the Mannerheim fortifications could be seen through periscopes barely 600 yards away.

TEXAS ATTORNEY NAMED TO POST BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 — Alvin J. Wirtz, Austin Tex., attorney, was given a recess appointment as undersecretary of interior today by President Roosevelt. His nomination for the $10,000-a-year post will go to the senate later in the week.

Decision to name Wirtz was revealed earlier in the day at Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early's press conference, at which time Rep. Johnson (D) Texas was present. Early said then that Ditz had the approval of Secretary of Interior Ickes and both Texas senators, while Johnson had formally placed his name before the executive.

SOYBEAN PLANT HIT BY $200,000 FIRE AT MARION

MARION, Jan. 2 — Fire today swept a soybean processing plant of Old Fort Mills, Inc., in Marion causing damage estimated at $200,000.

Firemen, called when the blaze started at 4 a. m., were still fighting the fire at 10 a. m. but were reported to have brought it under control. Near zero temperatures hampered their efforts.

The blaze halted traffic on the road tracks for two hours. President of the Old Fort Mills company is Peter Turner.

FIGHT LOOMS AS STATE MOVES TO REPLACE JENKINS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2 — Another spectacular battle before the state Civil Service Commission loomed today as Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood prepared to file removal charges against T. C. Jenkins, suspended superintendent of the London prison farm. Jenkins previously had announced he would fight for his job.

Charges similar to those brought against former Warden James Woodward of Ohio penitentiary have been drawn up for Sherwood by the attorney general's office, it was understood. They were expected to be filed with the commission today or tomorrow, since Jenkins' 30-day disciplinary suspension period ends Thursday.

The accusations, it was learned, would deal with the large number of escapes from the farm during March last year, alleged drug and liquor traffic and other charges of a more sensational nature.

W. F. Amrine, state superintendent of corrections, has been in charge of the prison farm since Jenkins was given a three-month leave of absence four months ago. Jenkins, who received $4500 a year, has been employed by state penal and correctional institutions for the last 34 years. He had been in charge of the prison farm since March 1, 1935. Before that he was superintendent of the Mansfield reformatory.

If Sherwood succeeds in ousting Jenkins, it was believed that Amrine would be placed in charge permanently. Amrine served as head of the institution until he resigned during an altercation with the administration of former Gov. Martin L. Davey.

STALIN APPEALS FOR HELP FROM NAZIS' FUEHRER

Copenhagen Dispatch Says That Red Wants Germans To Head Industries

FINN WAR MAY END

Economic Cooperation With Reich Depends On Adolf's Answer To Moscow

BERLIN, Jan. 2—German authorities today flatly denied a report published by the newspaper Politiken in Copenhagen that Russia has asked the Reich for 200,000 technicians and experts to reorganize the economic life of the U. S. S. R.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 2—Dictator Josef Stalin of Russia has asked Germany for 200,000 Reich technicians and experts to organize the entire economic life of the Soviet Union, especially transportation facilities, the newspaper Politiken stated today in a dispatch from Berlin.

The paper said Russia intends to place Germans in all responsible posts in Russian industries, replacing Russian executives.

High remunerations are said to have been offered the Germans, Politiken stated, and also to Russian-speaking experts in the Baltic states.

According to the dispatch the Finnish war has revealed "most astonishing faults" in Russia's organization it was stated in Berlin that if he received no outside help in reorganizing Russia, Stalin would be unable to carry on warfare on any front at all, the newspaper said.

(A Reuters news agency version of the Politiken dispatch said that Stalin admitted that unless he received requested help from the Reich he would not be able to continue the war against Finland and would be unable to deliver promised raw materials to Germany.)

The great question, Politiken added, is whether Germany can give Russia this aid. On the other hand, Russia is said to have stipulated that continued economic cooperation with the Reich will be conditional on receiving the requested assistance.

The screen bad man, Humphrey Bogart, will reform his tactics long enough to appear with Bing Crosby on the Music Hall Thursday. Two singers, Lucy Monroe, opera star, and Joan Brodel, night club performer, will be the other guests on the broadcast over the NBC red network at 10 p. m.

Bing sings "You're a Lucky Guy," "To You, Sweetheart, Aloha," "Moonlight on the Ganges," "Tumbblin' Tumbleweed," and for his 1926 memory song "Scatterbrain." Joan Brodel will handle the vocals on "Love in Bloom," "Old Spinning Wheel," and "June in January."

BRITISH TRAINING PLANE HITS 504 M. P. H. IN DIVE

LONDON — The fastest training plane in the world, the British Miles Master, was today in full production for the Royal Air Force.

During a recent test flight one of the constructor's pilots put the Master in a dive at Oxford and between there and Farnborough, Hampshire, a distance of nearly 50 flying miles, his average speed was 504 m.p.h., according to the London Evening News.

The normal speed of the Miles Master as a two seater trainer is claimed to be considerably higher than that of the American Harvard trainer, which it is beginning to replace in the R.A.F. equipment.

School Official, Family Take Ashville Residence

By S. D. Fridley, Ashville Phone 79

Since Saturday we have with us a family of new citizens, Superintendent of County Schools George D. McDowell, Mrs. McDowell and their three children, Virginia, George D. Jr., and Violet, removing here from Circleville and into their own home on Long Street. We welcome them to our midst as a part of us and hope their stay may be long and pleasant.

The New Year's greetings at the split second past twelve Sunday night was of gentle nature. Both the U. B. and M. E. Church bells rang out their welcome. The Young People's Societies of both the Hedges Chapel and local M. E. church held watch service here which consisted of music, devotionals and light lunch. The others held no services. The sermon Sunday morning at the Lutheran Church was founded on the coming of the New Year.

New Mayor Fred Hines has held the job now for almost two days and if the others are as fine as these, it's a sure bet he'll like the place more than just fairly well. But tonight (Tuesday) is council meeting with the "swearing in" to do to the whole village family bunch and the possible appointment of a street commissioner, deputy marshal and fire chief and besides name a few committees. But all this does not need be done in a single session as the mayor is full aware. He is no novice in village affairs having served as clerk for a long while and thoroughly understands each step in the business of the village.

Monday was the last one of the holiday play days for the school kiddies and we escorted several of them about "back to old school again." And we're pleased to find that with the exception of a couple, they were glad for school to be in session once more, saying that they had had plenty of play and that Old Friend Santa had been good to them. A list of 14 witnesses has been filed with the Civil Service Commission by Attorney Carl C. Leist who will represent Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann in the hearing on the removal of Carl Radcliff as night patrolman on the police force.

The hearing will start at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the council chamber before the commission consisting of James Wickensimer, chairman; Harry Bartholomew, secretary, and Joseph Brink.

J. W. Adkins, Jr., new city solicitor, will be legal adviser to the commission. Mr. Radcliff's counsel has not yet been announced.

With the number of witnesses called by Mr. Herrmann it was expected the hearing may last several days. No session of the hearing will be held Wednesday night due to the regular meeting of council.

Radcliff was removed from the police force on December 1 under seven charges filed by Mr. Herrmann. Elmer Merriman, Town Street, was appointed by Mr. Herrmann to serve in the position held by Radcliff.

FALL KILLS WOMAN

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2—A fall at her home last month today had resulted in the death of Mrs. Mary L. Harrington, 85, widow of the founder of the Harrington Co., Columbus jewelry firm.

man, an eighth grader, in a not far away school, told us that in the last four months of his schooling, he had been on the wram end of a perfectly nice paddle nine times and with the school year only half gone, thought if he could stand the last half and stay whole, it would be a record any kid should be proud of. Bad? No.

The several committees which have to do with the holding of the coming sessions of the local Farmer's Institute are busy making preparations for the event which will be held at the school auditorium January 24-25. The amateur show, they tell us, is to have a place on the program again this year. It has always proven to be a popular number.

BRITAIN GIRDS FOR MAJOR WAR

More Men Called Up For Service Next Spring; Emergency Cited

LONDON, Jan. 2—British authorities launched preparations today for major warfare on the Western Front next spring after King George VI signed a proclamation calling up 2,000,000 men between the ages of 19 and 27.

Under terms of the proclamation, which the king signed at a meeting of the privy council, the men affected must register for military service.

The various military classes will be called up at carefully worked out intervals. They will include men who by yesterday had reached the age of 19 but are not yet 28.

Speed with which they will be called up for actual service will be regulated in accordance with Britain's man-power requirements for the army, navy and air force. Sir Thomas Phillips, permanent secretary of the ministry of labor, stated:

"I think it is pretty certain that all the new classes will be called up to the colors by the end of 1940."

It was pointed out that the first group is not likely to be called up until March 1.

Authorities indicated that it was not yet possible to estimate the number of exemptions involved under the proclamation. There will be such exemptions, however, since the government is determined to retain sufficient men at home to provide man-power for key industries.

As a result of two previous proclamations, it was estimated that 2,750,000 men are now registered or liable to military service.

This figure does not include volunteers, regular members of the armed services or reserve auxiliary forces which existed prior to outbreak of the war.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

THE NEW ALL-AMERICAN LEAGUE

Pan-American history was written when the Graf Spee steamed out of Montevideo, Uruguay, the weakest republic of South America, told Germany, the strongest land power of Europe, to take her fighting ship out. Germany took it out. Uruguay's standing army is less than half as large as New York City's police force. Her navy, in effect, consists of one small coast-guard vessel. Her cruiser is forty years old and nothing but a metallic water lily. Nevertheless, Germany took out the Graf Spee.

But before she did so, Argentina, Brazil and the United States are reported to have agreed to furnish enough ships to Uruguay to take the Graf Spee out, feet foremost, if she refused to budge. That agreement, if made, is wholly admirable. President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull are to be congratulated on their firm stand.

This column has consistently opposed American participation in European or Asiatic power politics. It adheres to both sides of the Monroe Doctrine: (1) "In the wars of European powers, in matters relating to themselves, we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so," and (2) while refusing to interfere with existing colonies, we declared that any attempt by any European power to "control the destiny" of governments which have won their independence in "any portion of this hemisphere" would be regarded as an unfriendly act. In short, we said we would keep out of Europe and Europe must keep out of the Americas.

Only a short time before the Monroe Doctrine was declared, Florida had belonged to Spain, the Louisiana territory to France. Years after Monroe left the White House, Russia held Alaska; Britain claimed Washington, Oregon, and Idaho territory; Spain held Cuba and Puerto Rico; and Mexico owned California, Texas and all land between. Brazil had just won its freedom from Portugal, and Argentina, Mexico and other Spanish American countries had torn loose from Spain.

During our Civil War, France violated the Monroe Doctrine by occupying Mexico and withdrew only when we sent General Phil Sheridan and an army to the Rio Grande. This meant "Get out or we will put you out."

Later when Great Britain insisted on extending her frontiers in British Guiana at the expense of Venezuela, President Cleveland asked Congress to determine the true boundary line and to "resist by every means in our power" if Britain crossed it. This meant "arbitrate or fight." The British arbitrated. In Theodore Roosevelt's time, Admiral Dewey was ordered to sail to Venezuela, lest that country's ports be bombarded by German naval vessels. The kaiser, too, consented to arbitrate.

It is worth noting that two of the countries which have actually threatened the Monroe Doctrine were Britain and France. This seems to justify Washington's farewell warning against developing too strong attachments to any foreign power.

It is now said that the next threat to South America will come from Germany, if she beats Britain and France before they become her allies against Russia. Well, if so, we will meet it. We have been threatened by experts and are hard to scare. If Germany, Japan or Russia threaten to extend their Empire in Latin America, we will tell them to keep out or be put out. We cannot tolerate acquisition of naval or air bases in Latin America by European or Asiatic powers.

The Monroe Doctrine is now 116 years old. It has never been successfully challenged. At times it has caused distrust in Latin America. But today we are co-operating with Uruguay in assisting to maintain her sovereignty and respect for her neutrality. And so history is made. This and the recent Panama Conference, establishing a safety zone around the Americas, evidence a determination for united action by the united states of the Western world. It is the new All-American League. I am for it. Let us have at least one half of the world devoted to peace and determined to keep it.

We may have to show our teeth, as we have done before. But if the remainder of this country is to be the Old World versus the New, the Declaration of Panama, now that it has been made, should be enforced. It was adopted by the unanimous vote of twenty-one republics. This, in itself, is an extraordinary step toward Pan American solidarity. Having put our hand to the common plow none of us should turn back.

Effective means of enforcing the zone exist. War itself must be remote. Neither a divided nor a united Europe can afford to tackle the Western Hemisphere. However much any European nation might like to fight some American nation, it cannot fight all American nations. United we stand. If we do that, we can secure from Europe whatever respect we are prepared to demand.

BRAIN HAS NO REST EVEN IN PERFECT SLEEP

CHICAGO, — Dr. Ralph G. Gerard of the physiology department of the University of Chicago, declared recently modern scientific research has disclosed that the brain has no rest even in a deep, dreamless sleep. He said:

"Each cell in the brain has a continuous beat like the heart pulsations, and sends out a steady electric rhythm even in sleep."

Dr. Gerard stated that complexity of association areas of the brain and efficient adaption of use may make a small brain more effective than a large one. He added:

"The brain of a whole is very large, although it is small in proportion to the mass of the animal's body. The brain of a human being is approximately 2 percent of his weight, but a whale's brain is less than 100th of 1 percent of its weight."

STILL MORE GOLD

GOLD is pouring into the United States again in vast volume. In one week lately nearly $200,000,000 came. That was mainly from Canada, on British account. But the metal is coming plentifully also from elsewhere, including the Scandinavian countries, which need American supplies and also don't want Stalin to grab their gold.

We now have two-thirds of the world's known gold, about 18 billions reckoned in American dollars. If the war runs on and gold production continues, and our government accepts it as usual, we'll soon have 20 billions and then may soak up nearly all the rest.

What then? Obviously there must be a stopping place short of a complete gold monopoly, because if we had all the gold we could reasonably expect the other nations to demonetize gold and find some other basis of exchange.

Meanwhile we have incomparably the greatest economic power and liquid purchasing power in all history. And the greatest power of financial intervention in the world's business, for war or peace.

THE ARMY FARES WELL

WILLIAM L. WHITE observes in Berlin that civilians are wearing wooden shirts and buttermilk pants, but it's different with the soldiers. The army gets the best of everything. It has fine cars and plenty of petrol for them, while civilian Germany goes afoot.

At a time when wool and rubber are almost worth their weight in gold, "the army has plenty of thick rubber raincoats, and the best steel, and the best wool in its uniforms, and the best gas in its tanks, and the best butter and sausage in its belly, that the German nation can beg, buy or steal."

Maybe that is necessary. But onlookers often wonder how civilians like the situation, and how long they will tolerate it.

National policy and peace might be determined eventually by a public loathing for imitation food and clothing and weariness of ration cards. And, though this would seem incredible, there might be a growing resentment, among the people who do Germany's work and earn its living, that they should be shivering from poor food and thin clothing while sleek, well-fed soldiers splash mud on them.

Just to be in style, shouldn't we have a Maginot Line in this country, too? Maybe we could build a small model at Ellis Island.

It's painful to learn that Emerson and Thoreau belonged to Communist groups, but they hadn't any affiliation with Russia.

Looking at maps of the world today, we resent the years we spent studying geography.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to zero weather in Indiana where I spent my childhood, attended school and should know everyone, but don't. Returned to that city of Lafayette and thought I could walk down the street greeting everyone. Found that most of those I knew had moved away or on. And the ones who were kids with me failed to recognize me. Seems as though I am about the only one on whom age has left any severe marks.

As a youngster I used the university campus as a playground. Kids these days can't do that. Too many buildings now. Never would have believed that the old school could have grown so much. Scores of new buildings, including Carey Hall where our own Dub Nelson and several hundred other students make their home. Been interested in that structure, and quite a few of them.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
FDR NOW TALKS OF HULL

WASHINGTON—For the first time in two years word has gone out very quietly from the White House that the President has a man definitely in mind as his possible successor.

That man is Cordell Hull.

This does not mean that the President is committing himself. He is being careful not to get out on a limb. However, this is definitely the very first time he has even mentioned the name of a specific candidate. One year ago, in fact, Roosevelt told friends that he considered Secretary Hull too old (he is 68).

Therefore the consideration he is now giving Hull is more than significant.

What the President is doing is throwing out Hull's name to various close advisers and noting their reaction. He also made some inquiries into Hull's background in Congress and finds that it was good.

The tack which the President is taking is that Hull is the only man who could get the support of both the liberal Democrats and the conservatives, such as Senators Glass, Byrd, and George.

No other candidate, according to Roosevelt's present frame of mind, will be able to swing both the conservative Democrats and the liberal New Dealers.

Whether he continues to hold this opinion remains to be seen. Some of Roosevelt's advisers have told him that the trade treaties would be a tremendous handicap to Hull in the Midwest, and that his age also will be a factor.

Also significant is the fact that the Inner Circle, while not yet counting Roosevelt out for third term, are by no means so sure of it as they once were. Now they are convinced that Roosevelt really does want to be a candidate.

NOTE—If Hull (of Tennessee) should head the ticket, a New York candidate for Vice President would be a natural, in which case Jim Farley has his eye definitely on the job, and it would be tough for the President to refuse him. Inner reports, however, are that Roosevelt would prefer Bob Jackson.

JUSTICE FRANKFURTER

Like other members of the Supreme Court, Justice Felix Frankfurter has an imposing private office furnished with the elegance and comfort befitting an official of august rank. It has a private shower, large marble fireplace, massive furniture upholstered in rich leather, deep rugs and a desk that is a wide expanse of polished mahogany.

But unlike his colleague, Frankfurter does not use his ornate sanctum. It's too fancy for him.

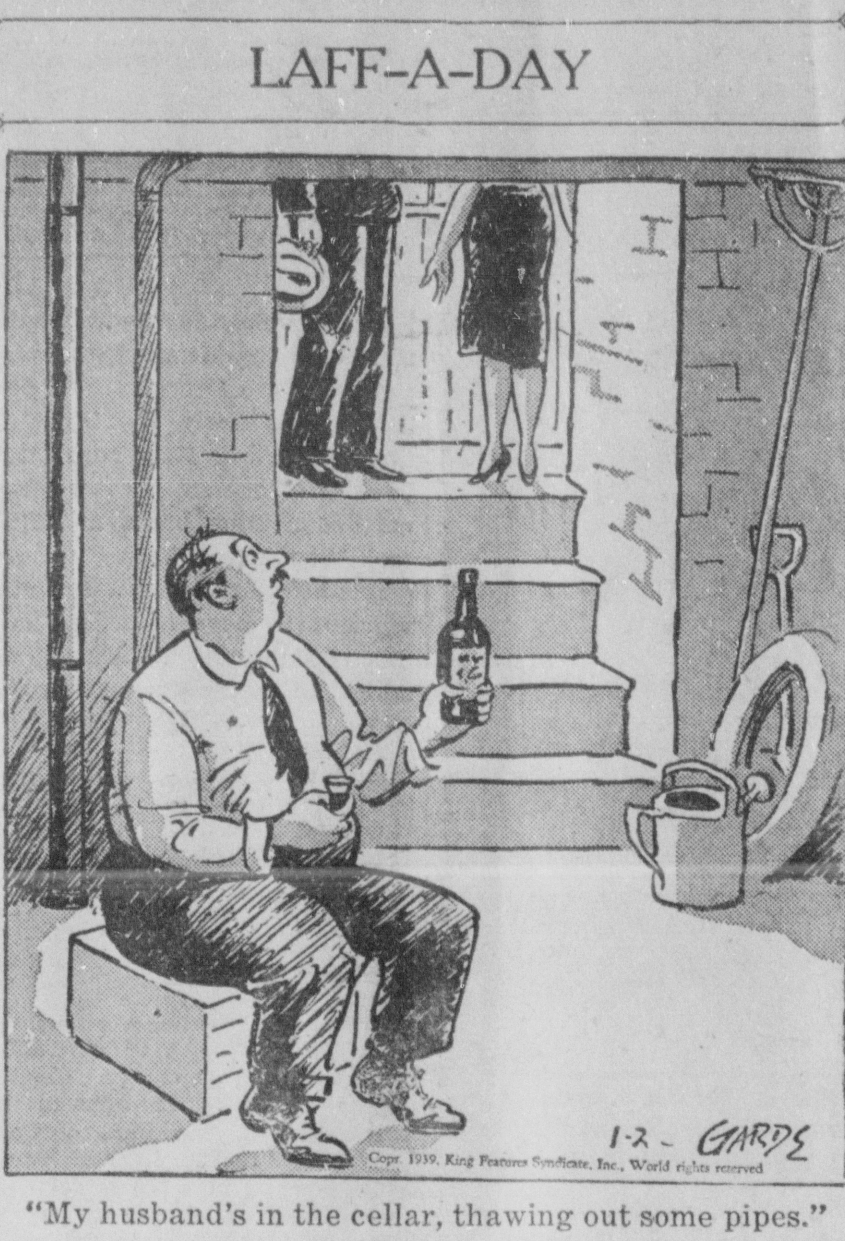

One day he said to Edward F. Pritchard, Jr., his brilliant Harvard law clerk, "Ed, how about swapping offices with me? You take mine and I'll take yours."

"It's okay with me," grinned Pritchard, "but why?"

"Mine is so ornamental it gives me the creeps. Its spooky. Further, its so elaborate." (Continued on Page Eight)

Miracle of Freezing Treatment for Cancer

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ONE DAY a year or so ago a Philadelphia nerve specialist had an epileptic, insane patient who escaped from restraint and wandered out into a cold, raging snowstorm. He had an epileptic attack and lay unconscious for several hours in the snow. He was thinly and poorly clad, and when he was found his body temperature was reduced to about 80. No thought or hope was held out for his recovery, but with surprising absence of symptoms he returned to normal.

But something else happened. He was also suffering with a cancer, and after the freezing the cancer began to disappear. A section was taken out of it for microscopic examination and it was found that the nuclei of the cells had all disintegrated and the cell bodies were being absorbed.

Apparently cancer cells couldn't stand cold as well as the rest of the body cells. It had a selective destructive action on them.

Thus began the freezing method of treating malignant growths. I have just come from seeing the method in action and I think it has been one of the two or three most exciting experiences of my life. I feel as I did when I heard the first report of insulin in diabetes and of liver extract in anemia.

Should Be First

A week ago I put down, as the most important advances in medicine made in 1939, the treatment of chronic deafness and the "convulsive" treatment of depressed mental state. But if I had seen this freezing treatment before, I would have put it in first place.

The most astonishing thing is that patients can live at all in these temperatures. The body temperature can be brought as low as 70° F. and kept there for hours, and still the body returns to normalcy with no trace of its arctic experience. The patients all report that the experience is a pleasant, dream-like state, with a succession of happy, pleasant fancies.

Of course, they must be anesthetized before they are put in the ice bath. They are given barbiturate hypnotics and then a spinal anesthetic, and are completely asleep when they enter the treatment. During their stay in the ice the position of the body is moved by an attendant. The body temperature is recorded continuously. A small rubber tube is kept in the stomach so the anesthesia can be kept up.

All this requires apparatus and facilities. It must be carried out with great care and strict attention to technique. Few hospitals in the country are at present equipped to justify the installation of these units everywhere in the country.

Only the advanced and hopeless cases, for which nothing can be done by surgery and x-ray, are being treated, but apparent cures are frequent. It is naturally too early for the results to be assessed. The cancers may recur, probably will. But one of the first results is to relieve intractable pain. It is the only addition to cancer treatment for 35 years that seems to have solid, practical results.

A LEAD TO AVOID

AT ALL times a player should be wary about leading away from a guarded jack or queen. If he has either one of these honors singly guarded and finds his partner with the other one twice guarded, the side is certain to promote a trick in the suit if it is led by the opponents. A lead away from that honor itself, however, will usually sacrifice both honors.

"TELL BILL GOODBYE"

CHAPTER FORTY

THERE HAD BEEN a note from Ellen on Fabienne's dressing table when she came in with Christine Parsons.

"A meeting will keep me at the house until seven, so I'll have a bite to eat down there and see you before the play," Ellen had written.

When Chris finished her recital with the dramatic announcement of her intention to kidnap her own child, Fabienne said, "You need a rest, Chris. There won't be anyone in the apartment until much later tonight. Let me put you to sleep in my room. I'll give you some tea and you can sleep. In the morning, we'll see what plans we can make."

"I have them all made," Chris said in that quiet tone of finality she had used a moment before. "Your being a nurse at the hospital makes the plan perfect."

"I'm not a nurse, Chris," Fabienne said gently. "I'm only a volunteer social worker."

"But they know you and trust you," Chris persisted.

"Oh, Chris, don't you see that this is madness?"

"Madness for a mother to want her child?"

No, that was not madness. It would be mad for the mother of a blue-eyed angel like little Sonny Parsons NOT to want him.

But everything else the driven girl before her said was madness. There was madness in the dilated pupils of her eyes, in the taut, drawn expression that whitened the corners of her nose.

Her voice was suddenly tender. "He's so little," she said. "And so like Larry! I've dreamed about him every night for all these two years. I taught him to say ma-ma when he was only a year old. When I went into the hospital to see him, he looked at me and I know he knew me. I stayed at the hospital one night and then I had to go because I didn't want Mr. Parsons to know I was there. I was afraid he'd take him away at once."

Fabienne said, "Come, Chris, you can have a nice cup of tea and you'll rest better."

The little Persian kitten climbed into Chris' lap. She petted it, with the little aware of what was going on, and went on talking in a far away voice. "Larry will come back. I cabled him. But he can't get here before his father has got the baby on a boat and far away where I can never get him again."

"He'll come back," Fabienne said soothingly. "And then you'll fix things up."

"I'm going to fix things up myself. At midnight," she said stolidly, but she got up, urged by the gentle pressure of Fabienne's hands beneath her elbows.

She went into the bedroom and allowed Fabienne to take off her hat and her shoes, but she wouldn't let her remove her dress until Fabienne said it would be too muddled to appear in. At last she permitted its removal, but she would not allow her to take it from her sight.

She said, "Fab, remember when we were kids and we used to talk how nice it would be to have a mother like Willy?"

Mrs. Wickford was the house mother at Miss Maidstone's school for Little Girls, where Chris and Fabienne, long-legged sprits of seven and eight, had first met. Mrs. Wickford was broad-bosomed and had a touch that soothed the pains of the young, both mental and physical.

"Then we used to say how pretty our mothers were, as if their being pretty made up for all the things we didn't have."

How well Fabienne remembered the fierce loyalty that covered hurts that were never healed. They were children of divorce, she and Chris. It had been their first bond. "My little boy is not going to wish he had a mother like a house mother in school. I'm going to be his mother! He's mine and Larry's. He needs us both."

Fabienne went into the bathroom, looked in the medicine closet and found some sleeping tablets. Bill had given them to her when she was ill and overwrought. He said they were harmless and guaranteed to put a patient to sleep for ten or twelve hours. She dissolved one in half a glass of water and brought it back to Chris.

"Drink it," she said.

Chris drank it obediently and leaned back against the pillows.

Fabienne drew a blanket over her.

Chris caught at her hand. "Later you'll help me, Fabienne?"

Fabienne said, "Try to fall asleep now, Chris." Later she meant to bring Bill back after the play and have him look at Chris.

"There's one thing more. You mustn't think badly of Larry," Fabienne said. "I wouldn't dream of it." Fabienne said dryly, wishing she could get her hands on Larry Parsons, who had left his wife in for all the agony of the last few years.

"Larry's weak. He's poetic, he isn't bad. You don't know how strong-willed his father is. I could always do anything I wanted with him until they got him away—until they—" she dropped suddenly into sleep.

She was safe until the dawn, anyway, Fabienne hoped, glancing at the clock. She'd barely have time for a quick bath, a bite to eat and she'd have to dress hurriedly. The play was opening at eight-fifteen and Camilla Morse, as well as several others she had invited, were coming down to see it. Chris and her troubles fled from Fabienne's mind momentarily when she arrived at the settlement house and went directly to the third floor. For this was the night of the first presentation of the Willoughby House Players, a project that was one day to give many ingenuities, a great character actor and a star to Broadway.

Backstage, and in the little dressing rooms across the hall, Fabienne paid a visit to each of her cast, telling them how proud she was and what was expected of them.

Outside, in the halls that led to the theater, she greeted the proud parents, friends of the children and her own friends.

Andrew Hardy came, saying it was the first night he had attended in thirty years.

Camilla Morse and her crowd came, saying, "My dear, guess who we ran into downstairs? That pretty girl we saw with Nicky at the Plaza—the—"

"Ellen Chapman?" Fabienne asked, smiling. "She's the most important person at Willoughby house. She's the directress. Is Nicky with her? They're supposed to be selling tickets to people like you. By the way, Nicky gets a lot of credit tonight. He paid for our handsome curtain."

Ken Hemmingsway, who had been receiving congratulations on his designs for the theater, came up to her, saying, "This is a pirate outfit, you know. Hope you left your purses at home. Fabienne is out to get all she can for her theater and her various projects. She hit me up last week for a bunch of boys' books."

Fabienne suddenly remembered Chris. "Excuse me. I want to look for Dr. Mallory."

Bill was not at the play; he had an emergency operation to perform. And so when she got home a little before midnight and opened her bedroom door to find the room empty, she didn't know what to do.

Christine had fled!

Ellen had gone with Ken and Nicky to the latter's apartment and she said she would join them there; she wanted to look in at her own place for a moment and would drive over in her own car.

Her car still was at the door.

Hastily, she pulled off her evening dress and kicked off her sandals. She put on a warm woolen suit, a polo coat and stout shoes. She flew downstairs to her car, praying that she would find Chris where she thought she was.

Dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. at a table set in the dining room, decorated in gold and blue, the colors of his school. Mr. Dreisbach, Jr., is a student at Kentucky Military Institute of Lyndon, Ky.

Pots of lovely African violets and a large birthday cake decorated in gold and blue were on the table, which was lighted with tall candles. Address books with the school seal in gold were the favors at each place.

C., to resume his studies at Duke University; Richard Penn, Pickaway Township, who is a student at Kenyon; David Jackson, O. S. U.; Burn Jones, Franklin Crites, Roger May, Roy Dunkle and Neil Leist.

An evening of reminiscences was enjoyed after the dinner hour. Several choice gifts were received by the honor guest.

Tuesday night, Mr. Dreisbach, Jr., will leave by special train with the entire student body of 250 and the faculty of the V.M.I. for the school's secondary plant in Venice, Fla., where classes will be resumed for the next three months.

Today's Fashion

A DINNER gown of the "grande dame" type is welcome to the wardrobe of the woman who looks well in striking clothes. Here is a dramatic and beautiful model of black velvet over white taffeta, a model that is becoming to both the young girl and to the more mature type. The velvet overdress buttons on snugly over a seamed and form-fitting bodice. It opens to reveal the taffeta undershirt with pleated flounces. The white pleating is used to outline the deep square décolletage.

Whatever the cause, business is better — and that means many a husband's bonus can go toward diamonds this Christmas. The stones may be small though sparkling, set in earrings you can clip on your lobes, or, in Paris manner, on the neckline of a gown. Whatever the size, have your diamonds set beautifully in a piece of jewelry to be cherished. The designer of the handcliff bracelet shown today makes a practice of making plaster casts of his clients' wrists and modeling the bracelet to fit. It's a service many require, wrists varying so greatly. Diamonds in several shapes are massed in front in this bracelet, thus making the most of their glory, and sculptured in curves on a wide band of platinum.

MIGHTY TROJAN TEAM TOO GOOD FOR TENNESSEE

Vols Fight To End, But Are Unable To Overcome Power Advantage

AMBY SCHINDLER STARS

Georgia Tech, Clemson And Texas A. M. On Top In Other Bowls

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 2—It's a long and difficult road sometimes to football's Hall of Fame, but Ambrose Schindler finally made it — and in the Rose Bowl, as the Trojans of Southern California blasted the Volunteers of Tennessee, 14 to 0, before a capacity crowd of 93,000 enthusiastic spectators.

Troy's big and powerful squad, skimming to a Pacific Coast conference title with two ties, got hot against the Vols and ended Tennessee's remarkable record of two and a half years without defeat and a 1939 untied and unscored on slate.

The Trojans, in fact, seem to have the secret of success in the bowl, having appeared now six times with as many victories, their victims including three southern squads, Tulane and Duke as well as Tennessee and those Dixie squads are tough on New Year's Day.

Southern California simply had too much power yesterday for Tennessee, and the most powerful Trojan of them all was Schindler, known as Ambly Ambly, a sturdy 195 pounds of dynamite on the hoof from down San Diego way.

Schindler Third In Troy's Genny Lansdell started the game at tailback and was replaced by Doyle Nave. They couldn't get to Vol pay dirt, so late in the second period Schindler appeared. A driving, pounding runner, he punched the Tennessee forward wall for short gains until close to the goal line. Then an enthusiastic volunteer got too rough and the resulting penalty put the pigskin on the one-yard line. Ambly promptly carried it over to be the first young man to poke his nose over the Vol payoff stripe since 1938.

Then, late in the final quarter, he got going again and aided by Jack Banta, put on a drive for nearly the length of the field, climaxing it by a cute bit of thinking. It was fourth down and one yard to go for a touchdown. The Vols lunged as one man at Schindler, but he stepped back and tossed a simple little pass to Al Krueger in the end zone.

Cafego Stopped Tennessee's famous George Cafego, obviously hampered by an injured knee, was stopped by the big Trojan forwards. But shifty Johnny Butler got away for a couple of nice runs, and Fox and Warren put on a passing act which seemed headed for a touchdown until a fumble intervened. Suffrage, the all-American Tennessee guard, played his game, knifing through to stop Lansdell once on fourth down, a tackle that probably staved off another U. S. C. score.

But all in all, the Trojans simply pounded the Vols into submission, running up a total of 272 yards and 18 first downs, to 141 yards and nine first downs for Tennessee.

John Kimbrough Stars

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 — Although there were plenty of cheers to go around, most of the shouting today after the sixth annual Sugar Bowl football classic was for "Jarring John" Kimbrough, whose spectacular play led undefeated Texas A. and M. to a 14 to 13 victory over a powerful and fighting Tulane eleven.

A crowd of 73,000, which shattered all southern attendance records, gave lusty vocal accompaniment as Kimbrough, a hard-charging, almost unstoppable all-American back, drove the Aggies ahead for the full 60 minutes.

Georgia Tech Ahead

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2 — The rambling wrecks from Georgia Tech disported themselves on the sands of Miami Beach today clad in shorts and the crown of Orange bowl champions.

Coach Bill Alexander's young men had put on a sleight-of-hand performance New Year's Day before 36,000 pop-eyed spectators to defeat Missouri, champions of the Big Six, 21 to 7. The Engineers spotted Pitching Paul Christman and his pals a touchdown in the first quarter, then proceeded to befuddle the crowd and the Tigers with a display of deft ball hiding. The show the Tech men put on rivaled anything they had done during the regular campaign that Jock Southerland Moving Into West Virginia Job?

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Dr. John Bain Sutherland, otherwise known as Jock, will coach football at the University of West Virginia next season and for as long thereafter as he cares to remain we are privileged to report today, on advices that the deal is about to be closed. In accepting this offer he is passing up a $15,000 a year contract with the professional Pittsburgh Pirates because he wants to remain collegiate and a "very good" offer from a prominent eastern school because the latter wants to remain collegiate.

By way of explanation, Sutherland could have moved into one of the ivy-festooned eastern joints right from the time that he was fired at Pittsburgh, but for the fact that a national magazine carried an expose of Pittsburgh methods, linking Dr. Sutherland up as a collaborator in what transpired there.

This shooed off the eastern school, which knew about Dr. Sutherland's character-building on a broad scale but didn't like to see it in print. So he hasn't coached since he was fired from Pitt and has let the Pittsburgh Pirates' offer dangle in the meantime while seeking out the right spot — and West Virginia is it.

Dr. Sutherland is one of the great coaches in football history. Perhaps he is one of the greatest, and if it is a football team that they want down at West Virginia they are about to get it, if they will cooperate—as they are committed to do. All they have to do is give him the material.

At Pittsburgh Dr. Sutherland had his choice of players until the Code Bowman—named for its parent, Chancellor John G. Bowman—was instituted bringing a wholesale cut in the football players' salaries and, more or less simultaneously, Dr. Sutherland was tossed out on his ear.

TEXAS AGGIES RATED AS BEST TEAM IN COUNTRY

CHICAGO, Jan. 2—Following its victory over Tulane yesterday in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, Texas A. and M. today was named the Nation's No. 1 football team in the final rankings of the Azzi Ratem system.

Although it competed in no post-season games, Cornell's undefeated Big Red eleven was given the runner-up spot, ahead of Southern California, placed third following its Rose Bowl triumph over Tennessee.

Tulane was given fourth position and Duke fifth. The other of the first ten elevens were ranked after the leaders in this order: Tennessee, Georgia Tech, Clemson, Notre Dame, and U. C. L. A.

SON OF EX-NORWEGIAN CHAMP WINS ON SKIS

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, Jan. 2—Harold Gjolme, ace Washington University skier, today held the Bradley plate, the prize awarded for scoring the highest point total in four combined events, following Sun Valley's second annual intercollegiate ski meet yesterday.

Gjolme, son of Reidar Gjolme, former Norwegian ski jumping champion, finished first in the jump, second in the downhill, fourth in the cross-country and sixth in the Slalom event to score 381.57 points out of a possible 400.

SOUTHERNER WINS

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 — By virtue of his brand of steady tennis, William Umstaedter, of Milburn, N. J., a Louisiana State University sophomore, today succeeded Joe Fishback of St. John's University as national junior indoor tennis champion. Umstaedter succeeded to the crown by defeating Richard Bender of Westfield, N. J., 6-3, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the finals.

WEST'S WEIGHT, WET FIELD BEST EASTERN STARS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2 — Forty-four of the nation's greatest collegiate football players of 1939 prepared to return to their widely scattered homes today, following the 15th annual East-West New Year's Shrine Charity game in which the western squad proved its superiority by a score of 28-11. It was the West's third successive victory.

The Eastern all-stars, coached by Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, were 10-3 pre-game favorites, but a soggy turf in San Francisco's Kezar stadium and a constant downpour throughout the afternoon kept backfieldmen George McAfee of Duke, Ed Boell of New York University and Ronnie Cahill of Holy Cross from executing effective jack-rabbit and aerial advances.

The 50,000 fans, whose ticket money went to the Shrine's crippled children fund, saw a heavier western squad, sparked by Leroy Zimmerman, fullback from San Jose State, Ollie Cordill of Rice, Kay Eakin of Arkansas and Frank Shirk of Oklahoma, outpower and outpace the easterners, through the sea of mud. The West, coached by Biff Jones of Nebraska and Babe Hollingbery of Washington State, scored its 28 points with four touchdowns and as many conversions, while the East earned its 11 tallies with one touchdown, a conversion and two safeties.

BUCKEYES LOSE BY LONE POINT TO CORNELL FIVE

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2 — Ohio State's defending Big Ten Cane Champions seemed destined today to the ranks of the also-ran in conference competition after losing their third straight game to an intersectional foe.

The Buckeye basketball team was nosed out by Cornell by a 29 to 28 score. The bucks outshot the Ithacans from the floor, 11 baskets to seven, but the Big Red dropped in 15 points on the 20 personal fouls called on the Ohioans.

The Bucks held a 13 to 10 lead at the half. Lynch of Ohio State and Bennett of Cornell tied for high scoring honors with nine points each.

Michigan continued to uphold Big Ten prestige in the other half of the double-header by taking the measure of Pittsburgh, 44 to 35, cashing in on a wild scoring spree in an overtime period. Ohio State lost to Pittsburgh Saturday night when Michigan defeated Cornell.

CIRCLEVILLE MAN APPOINTED TO IMPORTANT HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT JOB

W. L. STAMBAUGH NAMED AIDE TO DIVISION CHIEF

Title Of Superintendent To Be Used By East Ohio Street Resident

LONG EXPERIENCE NOTED

Central Ohio Road Work To Be Under Supervision Of Appointee

Announcement was made Tuesday of the promotion of Walter L. Stambaugh, 357 East Ohio Street, to division superintendent in division six of the highway department with headquarters in Delaware. The appointment became effective January 1.

Mr. Stambaugh will have charge of highway work in eight counties including Pickaway, Fayette, Madison, Union, Marion, Morrow, Delaware and Franklin. He has been assistant superintendent of surface treating in Division Six for the last year.

Stambaugh will serve under Perry Shumaker, recently appointed as division engineer. The principal duty of the local man is to supervise the superintendents of the various counties in his jurisdiction.

Mr. Stambaugh has had 12 years' experience in highway work including maintenance and repair as well as construction. He was superintendent of maintenance in Pike County for seven years before taking a position with the Buckeye Steel Casting Company of Columbus. Prior to his work on the highways he was a rural school teacher in southern Ohio.

Mr. Stambaugh owns and operates a grocery and meat market in East Ohio Street. Mrs. Stambaugh and their daughter will continue to operate the grocery and meat market.

MASONS GATHER ON ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL LODGE

Pickaway Lodge No. 23 Free and Accepted Masons met New Year's Day at 4 o'clock to commemorate the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the lodge.

Leslie L. Pontius gave an interesting talk on a trip in the Rocky Mountains, using a screen to illustrate color pictures taken by him.

H. A. Lehman and Harry Acton, speaking for the 19 lodges represented at the meeting, highly recommended the officers and members of Pickaway Lodge for progressive steps taken, and expressed the belief that the fraternal spirit of the lodge was reaching upward to a more noble purpose.

At 6 o'clock dinner was served to the 75 Master Masons present. Work was exemplified in the degree of Master Mason on one candidate.

HITLER SENDING BRITISH ADMIRAL BACK TO HOME

LONDON, Jan. 2—Unity Freeman-Mitford, the English blonde whom Chancellor Hitler admired as a "perfect Nordic beauty," is en route to England from the Reich aboard a special ambulance train, the London Daily Express said today.

The paper stated that Hitler made arrangements for her transportation home, adding that since outbreak of the war she has been hovering between life and death at a Munich hospital with a bullet wound in her head.

The express quoted a friend of the family as stating:

"It is entirely due to the assistance of Hitler, with whom Miss Freeman-Mitford always has been friendly, that she will arrive home within a day or so."

MARION WEBB, EX-JOCKEY, UNDER ARREST IN WEST

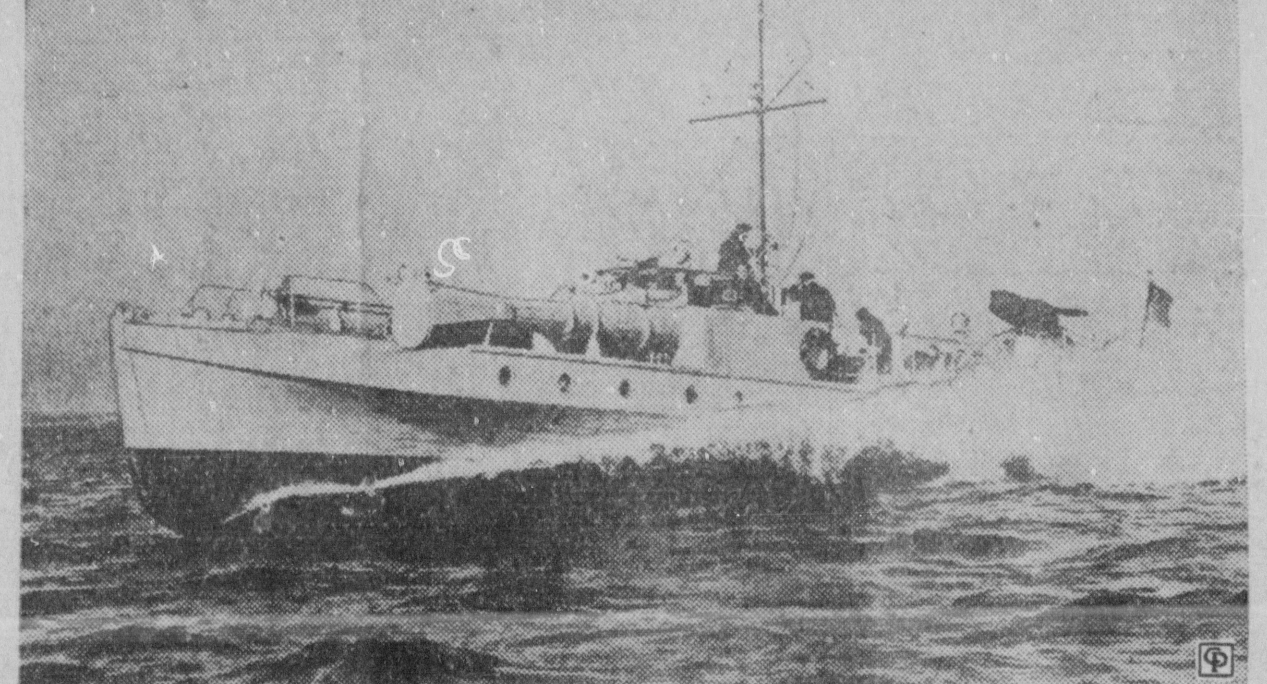

LONDON, Jan. 2 — Supt. William F. Amrine of the London Prison Farm made arrangements today for the return of Marion Webb, life term escaped convict, who surrendered yesterday in Los Angeles, Calif.

Webb, 57-year-old former jockey serving a life term for murder, walked away from the farm's honor camp at Lebanon three months ago.

Webb was sentenced for the fatal shooting of a racing judge in Alcorn 15 years ago. He was transferred from London to the Lebanon honor camp in 1933.

When he surrendered to the California authorities, Webb told them he had walked away from the honor camp to visit a seriously ill daughter in San Diego.

Poulson Takes Lead To Line Up Ohio Democrats

COLUMBUS, Jan. 2—With the holidays over, Ohio politicians turned their attention to campaigning in preparation for the May primaries, their interest whipped up by state and national issues and the fact that once again a presidential year had rolled around.

Deadline for filing intentions of candidacy in the primary is March 15, and aspirants for nominations for governor and other state posts are expected to begin lining up votes in earnest now.

There was little evidence of activity as yet in the Republican camp, due to the fact that Governor Bricker was expected to be the party's choice as a candidate for re-election.

The Democrats, however, were anxious and a little uneasy about their chances of returning to power in the state. And leaders were openly concerned about the lack of harmony within the party and the possibility that a half dozen or more persons would seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Poulson Voices Plea

This was revealed over the week end by a plea made by Francis Poulson, former chairman of the Democratic State Executive Committee, who appeared to party leaders to "get together" and decide on a candidate they could back and hope to elect.

In an open letter to Democrats, Poulson suggested that all members of the State Central Committee and the chairman of each county central committee be invited to meet in Columbus for the purpose of expressing their belief as to what leader would be the best choice for the gubernatorial candidacy.

While party followers hesitated to express themselves immediately on Poulson's suggestion, some such action was expected in view of the fact that at present a bitter battle looms among candidates who were expected to seek the nomination.

Duffy, Then Kennedy

Former Secretary of State William J. Kennedy was expected to announce his candidacy within a few days. Former Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy already has announced his.

Others who have been silent to date but were still considered as possible candidates for the nomination were National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, of Cincinnati; former Gov. Martin L. Davey, of Kent, and Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, of Cincinnati, sponsor of the recently defeated "$50-at-60" pension plan.

Some Democrats also were said to be trying to persuade former State Chairman Henry G. Brunner to run on the theory that he would be the candidate most likely to win the nomination and the election.

The "relief crisis" that capaulted the Bricker administration into the national political spotlight and brought down on the governor criticism from President Roosevelt, was expected to be a major issue in the gubernatorial campaign this year.

Democrats were certain to use the alleged plight of Ohio needy as a lever to attempt to return to power. Meanwhile, Bricker and his aides did not appear perturbed about it and remained firm in their determination to let municipalities handle their own relief problem.

Reports at the capital were that Bricker finally would capitulate and call a special session of the legislature late this month or early in February. If the chief executive does call the General Assembly, he was not expected to mention the state's relief problem but call it for some other purpose, possibly to increase old age pensions from a maximum of $50 to $40 a month.

Taft Draws Light

The national political spotlight will be focused on Ohio more this year than it has in many years past due to the fact that one of the leading contenders for the G. O. P. presidential nomination is U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Cincinnati.

Governor Bricker also has not been eliminated as a possible candidate for the Republican nom-

FLOODS ADD TO QUAKE DAMAGE IN TURK REGION

ANKARA, Jan. 2 — Heavy storms, high winds and rain brought new suffering to Turkey today following earthquakes in Anatolia and floods in the West.

The storm swept across Anatolia but its center was reported over the Black Sea and a large number of vessels was feared to have been wrecked.

The 604-ton steamer Turkan was reported to have sunk with its crew of 20 and a full cargo.

Unofficial advices numbered flood casualties at more than 300 in the Smyrna district and said rising waters marooned 500 villages. Still further quake shocks were reported yesterday in Anatolia, but at longer intervals.

Along the Anatolian Black Sea coast the storm caused heavy damage to ships and buildings close to the shore.

T. W. WHITE HURT IN FALL FROM CELLAR STEPS

Plans of Troy W. White, 157 West Mound Street, to observe the arrival of the New Year resulted in a painful accident Sunday night.

Mr. White is in Berger Hospital suffering from cuts and severe bruises about the head as the result of a fall down the cellar steps at his home. X-rays were to be taken Tuesday to determine the extent of his injuries.

Mr. White planned to fire his shotgun during the New Year's celebration. His hunting coat was hanging in the basement stairway. When he attempted to take it down the strap on the coat broke causing him to fall. His head struck the concrete wall during his fall. He is under the care of Dr. Lloyd Jones. Mr. White was taken to Berger Hospital Monday afternoon.

ASHBROOK, OHIO SOLON, IS DEAD IN JOHNSTOWN

Veteran Democrat III For Two Years; Widow, Five Children Survive

CAREER A LENGTHY ONE

Representative Editor Of Home Town Paper At Age Of 18

JOHNSTOWN, O., Jan. 2—Congressman William Ashbrook, who had represented the 17th Ohio District almost continuously for more than a quarter-century, was dead today. He was 72 years old.

The Democratic congressman suffered a paralytic stroke early yesterday and failed to rally throughout the day. He died last evening at his home.

He and Mrs. Ashbrook had planned to leave today for Washington for the opening of congress.

Ashbrook had been in poor health for the last two years. The widow and five children survive.

Ashbrook began his career as a newspaper publisher, becoming editor of the Johnstown Independent, which he still published, when he was 18 years old. He entered his first public office while still in his twenties when President Grover Cleveland appointed him Johnstown's postmaster.

He was elected to the Ohio Legislature in 1903, but resigned the following year on his election to congress. After 14 years continuous service as a national representative, he was defeated by his Republican opponent, William M. Morgan, in the Harding landslide of 1920. Morgan's margin of victory was only 123 votes.

A banker for 40 years, Ashbrook has served on the United States Army Commission under seven presidents.

Library Notes

A list of new books in the Public Library with thumbnail sketches of the subject was announced Tuesday by Daniel Pfoutz, librarian.

The list included:

Ballads and Songs From Ohio, by Mary O. Eddy. This native of Perryville presents a number of traditional songs of American origin and local variations of old English folk songs and ballads.

We Methodists, by Charles Edwin Schofield. This book on Methodism may be used as a manual for adult and young people's classes.

Caribbean Treasure, by Ivan T. Sanderson. Like his earlier book, Animal Treasure, Mr. Sanderson tells of a trip through the Caribbean region in search of rare and unusual animals. The books is recommended for lovers of animals, travel stores and adventure.

Your City, by E. L. Thorndike. This book is a study of 300 American cities for the ordinary citizen. It includes a score card for measuring the qualities of one's own city.

Europe: Versailles to Warsaw, by Ronald Stuart Kain. For those interested in current events and modern governmental policies and trends, this book gives an excellent background. It is really a modern European history but explains the position and policies of European struggle. It gives a summary of the armed strength of the various countries.

Gun Collecting, by Charles Edward Chapel. This illustrated book covers the whole subject of guns and explains their mysteries. It is of particular interest to collectors and gunsmiths.

date that there isn't enough place for all my books."

So Pritchard is now ensconced in his boss' flossy office and the Justice, with his books, is quartered in the modest, cozy office of his law clerk—minus shower and fireplace.

JACKSON DAY DINNER

Genial Big Jim Farley is predicting a sell-out at the $100-a-plate Jackson Day dinner in Washington next week.

"It can't miss," he explains with a broad smile, "and this is why: All the candidates will be there in order to be mentioned as among those present, also to be on hand in case the President says a certain something they are mighty interested in."

"And all the other boys will come in order to see what the candidates do if he says that something. Yes, sir, this is one dinner that will play to a capacity house."

FDR AND GARNER

There is one reunion on the day Congress opens which gossiping Washington would give its shirt to witness. It is the meeting between Roosevelt and Garner.

Since they parted just two months ago, the Vice President has tossed his hat in the ring as definite candidate for the White House regardless of what the President may do. Also, in the meantime, Roosevelt has told intimates that No. 1 on his list of unacceptable nominees is Garner.

This puts the two chiefs at squarely opposite poles.

This is nothing new. The two men have been in contending camps on a number of occasions in the last two years. But these differences have been on issues. This is the first time since the pre-convention battle of 1932 when they have crossed swords on personal ambitions.

Yet, insiders who know both men well are offering bets that they will greet one another like long lost brothers.

MERRY GO ROUND

One move in the minds of the Jack Garnerites is that in the last showdown he might withdraw to let Sam Rayburn step into the picture. . . . Memorable date in the history of American journalism was 60 years ago today, when The New Orleans States was founded to battle the notorious Louisiana lottery. Since then the States has fought editorially and valiantly against the Huey Long regime and played a leading role in exposing last summer's scandals. . . . Herbert Hoover is getting a bit of ribbing on his war memorial library, whose 17 stories tower in needle-like grandeur above the Leland Stanford campus. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of the university and Hoovers' Secretary of the Interior, always has insisted that Boulder Dam should be called "Hoover Dam" despite its official name. So now Stanford students are calling the 17-story Hoover Library, "Boulder" Library.
